

What's Happening at Cornell Farms

September/October, 2012

Things have started to settle down at Cornell Farms. The cattle are now at home grazing on the pastures nearest the home farm. Once we get the manure hauled, we'll start to wean the calves (separate them from their mothers).

The last barn event of 2012 was hosting the dinner at the end of the Rainy River Hereford Association Cattle Tour. The tour was a great success with multiple stops across the Rainy River district to visit cattle farms. We added corn stalks to our usual panel lights to give the event a fall theme and "Entirely Mac" entertained the crowd.

The tile drainage has been completed and we were lucky enough to take a plane ride to get a good look at the drainage patterns. It was really neat to see the farm from above. Here are a couple of pictures from that adventure.

Most of the out-of-town markets are done with Thunder Bay and Fort Frances continuing on until Christmas.

Pat's been travelling a bit – a conference in Ottawa and working in Thunder Bay, Brampton, and London. While she was in London, she met up with her family and friends. She was presented with a special birthday gift – a one-of-a-kind soap stone bear carved by her sister Dianne. It's beautiful!!!!

Kim and Pat travelled to England to visit friends and family. It was a great trip. Some of the stops included Bury St. Edmunds, Herstmonceux, Exeter, Bideford, Plymouth, and London. Kim did a great job driving throughout the countryside. Here are pictures of the Borough Market in London; sugar beet harvest and Clovelly in Northern Devon. If you check out the Cornell Farms Facebook page, you can see some more of the pictures from the trip.
