

What's Happening at Cornell Farms

Summer, 2016

It's been a busy summer at Cornell Farms. Between cattle, chicken, crops, markets, bees, barn concerts and travelling, we've been really busy. The bulls are out of the pastures and most of the grain is harvested so we seem to be in good shape as fall approaches.

Here's a picture of one of the herd bulls and the set up used to unload grain into one of the grain bins.

We had two barn concerts this year – Eli Barsi and Les Filles D'Esprit. Check out our YouTube Channels to hear some of their great music.

Kim and Pat had a fast trip to Prince Edward Island for the wedding of good friends of ours. While there, they met up with friends they hadn't seen for years as well as met some new friends with purebred Herefords and Angus cattle. We even had time to stop at the Cows Ice Cream Factory.

Our honey harvest was a bit down this year but there will be enough to supply family members. We did have some excitement with some round bales catching on fire. A special thank you to the neighbours who first saw the flames and to the local volunteer fire department for helping put it out. It is still being investigated. The good news is that we only lost 5 bales.

We've only had one bear sighting so far this summer – a sow and two cubs on the edge of the oat field. The sunsets this summer have been beautiful so couldn't resist including this picture looking out over one of the grain fields. We live in a great part of the world!
